

Love food? Love working at Whole Foods Market.

Team Members

You're mad about food. Simply nuts about the stuff. Live to eat? You bet. And cook and shop and talk about food too. Whether it's organic free-range chicken, freshly-baked focaccia or a ripe and runny Vacherin, good food's your thing.

And guess what? It's ours too.

If you're interested in sharing your love of all things gourmet with likeminded people, why not join us at our flagship UK store in Kensington High Street? And it's not just our mutual appreciation of great food and great customer service that will mean you'll love your work here. Our attitude to the people who work for us – and the positive environment we create for them – will have just as much to do with it.

We might be new to the UK, but we've already earned ourselves quite a reputation in the US. The world's leading natural food retailer, we've been voted one of Fortune Magazine's Top 100 companies to work for eight years running. So we think we can safely say that if you love food, you'll definitely love working at Whole Foods Market.
